Idea

When planning to take a job in Germany researchers abroad are often confronted not just with the problem of the time needed to attend a job interview in Germany but also the costs involved. For their part, public research institutions and universities are often unable to pay travel expenses from abroad.

The Programme covers travel expenses of applicants in STEM subjects.

Funding

Funding is possible for the following positions:

W2/W3-Professur, Juniorprofessur, FH-Professur, Leitung von Nachwuchsgruppen.

The Dr. Wilhelmy-GSO Travel Expenses Program supports public universities, university of applied sciences, and non-university research institutes in their efforts to recruit staff internationally.

Under this program, travel expenses for attending job interviews in Germany can be refunded to a maximum of €2,000.

Application process

Applications may be submitted by public higher education institutions (universities, Fachhochschulen) and non-university research institutions in Germany at anytime, however a minimum of two weeks before departure.

Applications must be sent to GSO electronically. Please use the relevant online application form. Application guidelines can be downloaded on the GSO website.
